Your barn finds and discoveries in the field

Secret garden

Benjamin Thorndyke has unearthed an exceptional brace of thoroughbreds for us in Cambridge. A scarce yet exceedingly desirable (and valuable!) Honda NSX is awaiting its fate in this front garden. With only around 300 licenced here in the UK now, it would be a tragedy to see such a sought-after supercar scrapped.

Lada Riva 1500 Estate

Andrew Wallace just managed to snap this Lada Riva straight after it was dragged out from a front garden in Saldern, near Brighton. It hadn't moved in the 18 years that Andrew had lived there.

Citroën CX Safari

A long-forgotten CX Safari pair outside a boarded-up house near Bristol, fairly well decayed yet still worthy of welding potential for a few spare parts. As found by Barry Cash from Bristol.

TVR 350i

In another front garden, this permanently parked TVR 350i is a 1987 model and has sat there for about four years awaiting recommissioning.

Ford Escort XR3i

It's only the most recognisable alloy wheels from the Eighties that identifies this split-in-half hanging Ford Escort XR3i, sent in by Ian Hawcock after he found it in an unidentified scrapyard.

1976 Peugeot 304

Mel Holley spotted this 304 in a village near Peterborough. It outside a small workshop, but according to Mel the car's been there for a while. DVLA says it was last taxed in 1984.

Citroën 2CV

David Waddell spotted this multi coloured yet sorry looking Citroën 2CV sitting in a body shop yard near Perth in Scotland. It looks like it's another candidate waiting its turn to be restored.
